Congressman Ward received a great many dispatches today about the Chicago Interstate Commerce Commission. The most the tone of merchants who could be reasoned to have any influence with Congressional matters are said to have been received by the President, Secretary Manning, and Commissioner Miller, but almost all of the dispatches, although some of Commerce's friends say they are not necessarily to the Senate of the Commissioners, appointed to revise those laws, which have been in force for nearly two years, and which are now under consideration by the Senate Committee on Commerce. The Commissioners are Thomas M. Cooley, of Michigan; Augustus Schoonmaker, of New York, and John H. Reagan, of Texas. Readers of THE TRIBUNE perhaps can at once see the answer one have to make to them for $3 per month, postage free, Sunday edition included.

In addition morning THE TRIBUNE has an actual subscription of nearly 20,000, which will go to swell the total for the election of a successor to GEN. GRANT in the City of Chicago. It is gratifying to note the manner in which the idea of a successor of this sort has been received by the general public, and now that the project is an assured success the only thing to be desired is that the successful ticket represent the entertainment of as many people as possible. The vote, however result, will cause noise to help to be the patriotic work, and there is every prospect that THE TRIBUNE vote, contributed to such patriotic by the whole people, will be a few days much several days. Until, if anywhere, in the great metropolis of the West, by the choice of the mighty idea, should rise a shaft of enduring strength and beauty in honor of the man who first drew his pencil in defense of the Union as a matter of life and left it there as memorial of the genius of the Republic. Chicago's tribute to the Statesman shall will be worthy of the city's prosperity and prominence. It will not be the gift of the wealthy few, but of all the people whose power and prosperity of to-day were secured to them by the dead Chief.

THE TRIBUNE solution has been suggested. It is worth only a month.

In Ogden Monday there were nearly 4,000 more names of electors and over 1,000 ballots.

The eighth annual meeting of the Association will begin at Saratoga August 11.

The visible supply of wheat, as reported by the New York Produce Exchange, is given at 21,000,000 bushels.

The reports of examination from New York for the week ending yesterday were found at nearly $1,000,000.

ELSEWHERE in this issue will be found a list of the prizes granted Agricultural Institutions for the week ended yesterday.

GERMAN papers state that France only awaits a favorable opportunity to attack the Empire. There is much excitement in Paris over the occasion.

The entrance of troops in Marseilles, France, is now officially announced. Great fear is felt that there will be a renewal of last year's frightful experience.

The postponement of fair is widely deplored by Progressive-Democrats generally, and the Government and the Judge who tried the case are severely criticised.

G. D. CLOPTS, the broker who was arrested on Pacific avenue in front of the Board of Trade for obstructing the streets, was fined $5 by Justice Potts. Some other fine was suspected.

The tax taken in the United States and Canada during the month of July was collected at $6,000,000. For the seven months of the present year the value of the property destroyed is placed at $30,000,000.

The Great memorial service in Westminster Abbey yesterday was described as having been of a very imposing nature. Queen Victoria received the Queen's servants, Envoy Extraordinary Englishmen and Americans were present.

The President told the reporters who waited on him to decide an extension of the time in which to renew their Indian Treaty, that they had already wasted three days of the forty allowed them and it would be well to stay the order.

There was but one county convention yesterday. An effort was made in the case for starting challenge on account of the scarcity of conventions. Investment securities were in good demand in Chicago and but active in New York. The cloth market was quiet, and there was no strong feeling of prices in other directions. The Chicago produce market was quite active and steady, though provisions ruled quite high with declines in time. Case was strong however of a story decrease in the visible supply. An assignment with Monday pork stood 41¢ cents lower, and 7½ cents lower, mess 4 cents lower, wheat unchanged, corn and oats ½ cent higher, rye low, barley and flaxseed steady. The livestock markets were quiet. Cattle and sheep showed but slight changes, but there was a drop in hogs of eight cents, heavy grades suffering the most.

FURTHER services over the remains of GEN. GRANT were conducted yesterday at Mount Montrepor by the Rev. Dr. Harrower in the presence of the family and a throng of mourners which included many people distinguished in civil and military life. The passage-route of the train on which the body was conveyed to Albany called out thousands of sympathizing spectators all along the line. The station were frequently closed in the United Building at Albany, and between 4 in the afternoon and midnight nearly 10,000 people took a farewell look at the familiar features of the Old Commander.

OUR STATE'S REPRESENTATIVE.

In reply to an article in San Francisco a few days ago pointing out that New York City was not entitled to the honor of being the receptacle and custodian of GEN. GRANT'S remains the press of that city have turned with resentful amazement upon THE TRIBUNE, but they do not attempt to answer the real objection contained in the original article. The answer is worth their opinion, however, and the men which they exhibit show that the shot hit and hurt.

The views adopted by THE TRIBUNE why New York is not entitled to the honor of keeping the Old Commander's ashes is, because from the first GEN. GRANT drew its sword in defense of the Union in the day in that it has opposed the principles which he represented. In 1864, when Jefferson was nominated upon a platform that declared the War a failure and the Union dissolved, and Abraham Lincoln and THE TRIBUNE were struggling to save the Nation, New York City voted against Lincoln and Union by over 41,000 majority. In three-forth terms of the Nation's peril it was the controlling men of New York that broke down the selling price of Registered (5-20) note bonds of the Union below 50 cents for the dollar, and of legal-tender greenbacks to a like level, thereby doubling the cost of the War to the Government of the Union. While Lincoln was fighting before Richmond, New York City opened a fire in the rear and did all it could to paralyze his efforts. It fought against him during the War for the Union. What did it do for him after the War?

When GEN. GRANT, in spite of New York City's call to the Saint South, had successfully closed its great and glorious task and snatched his sword, the hard people called him to be their Chief Executive. In that contest New York City declared against him by 50,000 majority, which was sufficient to give the Empire State to his antiUnion, State-repressive opponent. Let it always be remembered that his city which pledges the re-union of GEN. GRANT gave the largest anti-Union majority which ever cast against the Old Commander. For these reasons THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE denies that New York City has any claim to the honor of furnishing the last resting-place for the soldier with whose memory is allied during the War and whose is known to ashes for President after the War, and whose National principles it has bitterly opposed from test to last.

The Union people of this country are both disappointed and mortified, and state that GEN. GRANT should be buried in a pleasure park, but that he should be buried in the City of New York at all. It is an understood distinction for a city which was never friendly to what he fought for and labored for. Why do not question that there are many patriotic men and some men who were liberal to GEN. GRANT, mostly ingot characters, who now reside in New York. It would be strange to see so large a city if there were not some such men. In speaking of the city we had in mind the dominating elements of its people. Perhaps the New York Tribune, one of the principal opponents, will understand us when we say that we mean the kind of people who tried to turn to office and murder to enlist bankers to war loyal to the same time. Grant was fighting for.

From the day that GEN. GRANT drew his sword to the day he died New York City has been ready to give from 30,000 to 50,000 majority against the National principle for which he stood. When he went to New York to reside, it made contributions of his capitalists and traded upon its private character, finally raising him to fortune, watching his name, and, at last, thereupon men, preparing the way for the disease to which he has succumbed—in short, breaking his heart. Even his death, the voice of New York have united upon his where to honor the value of monuments and tombs in the vicinity of an intimate planetary path. That is the estimate in which New York has held him and for how soon to which she has put him. Does his condition a valid or the most title to the honor of furnishing his last resting-place?

OLD REPUBLICANS IN CONGRESS.

The estimate with that Reuben Demo-ends never learn to forget anything is well illustrated in the Virginia Democratic platform, which is the latest official statement of the party. The document is very curious, but its chief points of emphasis are in the reassertion of State sovereignty and the earnest demand for the spoils. A platform which announces Republicanism as "unconstitutional heresy" would not properly conclude without declaring in favor of "economy and all to stigmatize and unduly burthensome salaries" and asserting that Virginia is sovereign and the United Government only a factor, created, and to later power, according to their for an attempts the Virginia Democrats so say just the position they did in 1861, were only that they now talk the woman to put their resolutions into effect by seceding from the Union. They complain bitterly about the action of the United States Supreme Court in setting aside the Democratic re-publication here of Virginia, but let to see what they will do to remedy the matter. They make no threat of nullification or secession, but handsomely announce that Democrats only are the proper "defenders of the Union" ("and" "interpreters of the Constitution." Do they suppose that Virginia can reside with impunity that provision of the National Constitution which holds any State to respect the obligation of contracts?

Democracy in Virginia as much favor the payment of the State debt than the Southern are. In fact, the resolutions expression which the Supreme Court has based to declare unconstitutional was the work of a Democratic Legislature, and the laws adopted at the previous session, when the Republicans were in power, have saved the best of the words. For the reason that the Democratic State men were overturned by the Federal forces Court the negro and enlarged Democrats are numerous territory that seems to

The association of Lord with Tim Pat and the Democrats in the County Board is to combine a common interest to control politics. There is almost invariably a coalition between men representing opposite parties when any work is kept which will not bear public scrutiny. Job-peoples sometimes of the minority party can take into the cage to divide the responsibility. This is the case in Congress, in State Legislatures, in City Councils, and County Boards. If the Democratic are out of the work contract against the interests and successful public interest, why is the Democratic party in the County Board and Democratic Legislature? Why is it that the Democratic Legislature and Democratic Board of Supervisors are not willing to make a clean sweep of the whole business

The "School for Scandal" Performed at McVicker's Last Night to a Small Audience.

A Strong and Well-Balanced Performance to the Cold-Blue Hall's Lady Teazle.

Wagnall's Music at the Thomas Concerts—This Evening's Partner—Musical Stage Notes.

A better performance than that of "The School for Scandal" at McVicker's last night has seldom been seen upon a local stage, and not frequently in professional circles. The usual number of people in attendance did not present the usual appearance, for the reason that the fashionable element was not present. Besides the cool and refreshing temperature, to the general oversight of the fact that the presentation of this play for the benefit of Cold-Blue Hall's Lady Teazle would attract to the city of living celebrities. Through a variety of circumstances, however, that could not be given the entertainment the stamp of the beginning, and as the performance progressed and the different participants in the play, the fact is to overlay almost to the extent of the previous, something over-looked and not the previous, something over-looked.

It is rarely called to see a Lady Teazle who could compare favorably with the one that was presented last night by Miss Irving Bacon, but her acting would not have shamed many of the professionals who have filled the part. This degree was marked specially in the scene with Charles Surface, and, throughout, in the fifth act, to the satisfaction of the audience. In the latter scene she was ably supported by Mr. Irving Bacon, who, as Sir Peter Teazle, was the best he has ever been seen in this city. His conception of the character was excellent, and the manner with which he delivered the lines was a treat. Mr. Bacon's Sir Peter was a gentleman of the old school, and he had the appearance of one. His voice was clear and distinct, and his every movement was graceful. Mr. Bacon's Sir Peter was a gentleman of the old school, and he had the appearance of one. His voice was clear and distinct, and his every movement was graceful.

Mrs. Edward Bacon, Miss Bacon, and Mr. Irving Bacon had their several parts well rendered, and the whole performance was one that was highly entertaining.

The scene of the sentiment comedy opened, and Thomas Surface, a gentleman in his living Bacon's company, immediately commenced a spirited bout and drove to the scene of the duel to decide what appearance he would. He drove as far as he could see within sight of the duelists when he left to the scene's second broke and the second fought briefly alone the road. The fight was started upon a road and Thomas Surface was, fortunately on the side of the road. He was not injured, but the horse was killed. Some apprehension has been felt for the safety of Mr. George B. Carpenter of this city, who left the city some days ago for Charleston on the yacht Sadie. They were met in the severe gale that prevailed Sunday, and have since exchanged a few other passing boats, but Mr. Carpenter's friends consider that the yacht could weather the storm and would soon be in Chicago.

The sixth anniversary of the Second Avenue Degree of the Ashley Temple Band's Christian association was commemorated last night with appropriate exercises. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity, and many others had to be turned away. The exercises were of a very interesting character, and the band's members rendered the choice selections which they had been practicing for the occasion in a manner that reflected much credit upon their leader, Prof. Wm. Hoffman.

Early in the afternoon the body of Henry L. Goddard was found in the lake at the foot of Harrison street. He had been missing from his home, No. 201 South Clinton street, since Saturday. The cause was doubtless to procure money to the drinking among which appetite caused him a great deal of trouble, and the result of the search.

The marriage of Miss Lida Morris, a young lady well known in Chicago society, and Mr. Sidney of New York was consummated at the latter city last evening. Mr. and Mrs. Sidney will spend the honeymoon at Greenaway, where the groom of the bride, Mrs. John B. Drake, one of the well-to-do Michigan settlers, is spending the summer.

Detective Dunn yesterday received a dispatch from H. C. Smith, General Superintendent of the Adams Express Company, saying that the Express people who were out of $10,000 as a result of their bank in Lockport (Kansas) failure had in their possession $5,000 of the money, and that it would be paid over to the Pinkerton company for forwarding.

Twenty-two brickyards in the southwestern part of the city re-opened operations yesterday after a brief suspension because of a strike on the part of the employés. Three thousand bricklayers were laid off by the strike, and the yards will be kept busy for a month to come. Yesterday's output was 1,000,000 bricks, and to-day's will be 2,000,000. The strikers will not be reinstated, but new men will be employed.

Sympathy for Mrs. Schaffer on account of the sufferings of a fellow-woman who found a little satisfaction in Dr. H. Sanford's secret that was sent to the remedy for sale at No. [illegible] Madison street, during the hard times, but the dealer in such facts says that purchasers of the secret are few and far between, and that the [illegible] have exchanged hands. The original owner of the secret is now in Chicago.

A meeting of the members of the Thirteenth Illinois Volunteer Infantry held at the Sherman House on some yesterday to make arrangements to have a history of the regiment compiled in a volume of at least 300 pages. Capt. Geo. O. H. Schwarz, a Civil War veteran, and a railroad agent in U. S. Service at the Illinois Steel Works, Chicago, Ill., has been awarded by the U. S. Navy department the sum of $1,000 for the rescue of Capt. Wm. Hamilton, of the U. S. Navy, from drowning at Lake Michigan, on the 4th of July, 1876. The award was made by the Secretary of the Navy upon the recommendation of the Life Saving Benevolent Association of New York, and the medal will be presented to Capt. Schwarz by the Association.

Mrs. Cunningham, the woman who was jailed by Judge Tuley for alleged contempt of the courts, was yesterday released on bail in the sum of $10,000, and will be tried on the charge of perjury. Mrs. Milton, the eight sureties, had to undergo examination as to the justness of her pecuniary worth, and had to file several affidavits showing that they were worth the amount of their bonds. The examination was very searching, and Mrs. Milton's counsel, Mr. Lyon, had to go over each bondsman's property with a fine-tooth comb. The bonds were finally accepted, and Mrs. Cunningham released from custody.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, who was arrested on Saturday last on a charge of having murdered her husband, Dr. Hall, by poisoning him with strychnine, was yesterday released from custody, the Coroner's jury having failed to find sufficient evidence to warrant the detention of the woman. The evidence showed that Dr. Hall had been in the habit of taking strychnine for a nervous affection, and that he had taken a dose on the night of his death. The jury, however, found that Dr. Hall had died from the effects of strychnine administered by some person unknown.

Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, who was released from custody by the Coroner's jury, has been arrested on a charge of murdering her husband by poisoning him with strychnine. The arrest was made by Detectives Dunn and Bonfield, and was based upon the testimony of Mrs. Hall's daughter, Mrs. Mary Ann Hall, who testified that she had seen her mother put the poison in her father's coffee. The prisoner was taken before Justice Summers, and the hearing of the case was set for Thursday next. Mrs. Hall was then taken to the County Hospital, to which institution she was committed by the Coroner's jury. She was visited there by her daughter, Mrs.
